Shot while on a bicycle ride, after stopping to pick a call from a friend, dude had swag so I took out my phone and shot this picture. He is walking past stagnant water with “affordable” housing construction in the background. This used to be the famous V.O.K dump site.

Shot while on one evening walk, when I come across a structure with so many CCTVs, I wonder did this person work so hard to live in a self imposed prison?

we need to talk (with a view)

“People try to rub out things, but they cannot. Things are not so easy. What has passed between us is too much to be passed over in a sentence. We need to talk, to open our hearts to one another, examine them, and then together plan the future we want.”

—Ngũgĩ wa Thiong’o, A Grain of Wheat
